Playing an Active Role in Creating Transformation

CIVIL SOCIETY

- Collaborate deeper and better across sectors and within your sector.
- Test new models of working and organising for change.

INVESTORS

- Set mission as delivering value in the broadest sense – long-term societal value and natural capital – not just short-term financial returns.
- Employ innovative instruments that finance the costs of transitioning to a different and just economic model.
- Broaden and deepen analysis of ESG risk.

BUSINESS

- Ensure the organisation has an inspiring and credible change-making purpose beyond profit maximisation, and the governance to deliver on this.
- End procurement practices that only focus on extracting maximum value at minimum cost and shift to new practices and market models that focus on full transparency, sharing value to build resilience and regeneration all along your supply chain.

PHILANTHROPY

- Develop participatory approaches to grant making that engage those closest to the challenges in informing the solutions.
- Look beyond quantifiable outcomes to invest more broadly in the capacity of your grantees.

GOVERNMENT

- Align post-COVID-19 stimulus spending with ‘green new deal’ principles.
- Develop plans for a ‘just transition’ which drives greater equality, putting new opportunities and decision-making firmly in the hands of local people.
- Embrace truly participatory, multi-stakeholder approaches to democracy and civic engagement.

CIVIL SOCIETY

- Align post-COVID-19 stimulus spending with ‘green new deal’ principles.
- Develop plans for a ‘just transition’ which drives greater equality, putting new opportunities and decision-making firmly in the hands of local people.
- Embrace truly participatory, multi-stakeholder approaches to democracy and civic engagement.

#TimeToTransform #FutureOfSust